Upland bird hunting: the standard is Red Bank

You sportsmen know that when the weather changes the hunting can get really good. And that is what we expect the rest of the year at Red Bank Ranch. Our dove opener was good, but the prospects this fall are looking even better. One huge reason is our farming practice with fields of wheat and safflower.

For over 50 years the Red Bank Ranch has been known for Bob White quail hunting. Right now we are continuing the tradition with hunters scoring well. In addition we have a thriving population of Tennessee Reds. These birds are a real challenge. Brian Riley wants you to know that they are “sporty”, and advises that you bring an extra box of shells.

There have been many requests for our driven pheasant hunts. Red Bank has a perfect location for this style of hunting. We encourage bringing a group for a terrific experience. Since introducing the driven style several years ago some groups have proven their excellent shooting abilities. This is very challenging shooting from the 100 foot cliffs of the red bank.

For you gobbler hunters, the fall turkey season is right around the corner. The fall session is for toms and hens with a limit of two per season. We have secured additional ranches for turkey hunting. With the big numbers of turkeys spotted so far hunters will have good luck.

“Don’t forget that lodging and meals are also available,” Brian said. “We love to have groups because that’s the most fun for everyone. We have companies that come for hunting, team building and we can provide for meetings and conferences. We want to make your outing the best!”

If you enjoy hunting pheasant, quail, chukar or turkeys, Red Bank is the spot for you!

Wedding bells....

Jake Hampton was a member of the staff at Red Bank for over 10 years, which makes him part of the big family. When Jake proposed to Heather Ashton everyone was very happy for them. And they made us even happier by saying that they wanted to get married at the ranch.

So to make it as memorable as possible, the patio at the lodge was tripled in size with a new cover for a portion, furniture...the works! All of this was done so that the 300 guests would be comfortable And that Jake and Heather would be proud of this moment for the rest of their lives.

With special parking for the many vehicles, decorations just so, everything was ready. We are happy to report there were no second thought or cold feet...and the knot was tied. Everyone had a wonderful time and the ranch got plenty of compliments on the whole affair.

AND NOW, we invite you to plan a wedding at the Red Bank Ranch! It is a terrific place to celebrate a special occasion. Call for details about our wedding planning, dates and all details. We can also host bachelor hunting parties, including lodging and meals.

Already married? Maybe your arranging a family reunion, or a business meeting. We can accommodate your gathering for just about any occasion. Large or small, come to the beautiful Red bank Ranch.

Deer hunters make memories at Red Bank - you can too!

And as we all know, the first one is one you'll always remember. First car, first kiss, and first deer hunt.

To make that dream a reality for one girl, Jen Adams of Girls with Guns teamed up with us and gave Caylie Adams her chance. The photo below tells the rest of the story. Atta girl, Caylie!

CJ McDowell (at right), from Clayton, also came and took a fine buck. Good shootin', CJ!

Come to think of it, you probably remember all of the successful hunts, particularly when the experience is as good as you'll have at Red Bank. Deer hunts book out very early at Red Bank Ranch. We limit the numbers so that those that come have a chance at a buck to be proud of. If you want one to remember please contact us now about the fall of 2017.

Hey Duck Hunters...

When you get out of the blind why not come out for a great lunch....and hunt quail in the afternoon at the Red Bank Ranch!

You could have your limit of quail by dark. Give us two days notice, arrive by 2 PM, and we'll host your party for lunch and a terrific quail hunt. 530-529-9435

Kids continue to have fun at KOSC

The Kids Outdoor Summer Camp (KOSC) at Red Bank Outfitters continues to reach new levels of education for young people. According to Brian Riley, these programs are touching the lives of young people around the world.

“This last summer we had kids come from Taiwan and China for a special camp,” he says. “The word about our camp has literally spread around the world.” In fact, groups from Taiwan have come for several years. They were exposed to shooting safety, rifles, shotguns, archery, black powder shooting, first aid, animal tracking, fishing and other outdoor skills. This year the trip was sponsored by World Journal newspaper.

Four regular camps were held, three for beginners and one for advanced students. Hundreds of kids had a great summer experience - one they will never forget.

“I want to challenge our sportsmen,” says Riley. “Get involved! We realize that our hunting heritage must be protected for the future, and we feel that we are planting the seeds to ensure continued outdoor recreation for years to come.

These youth programs are more important than ever.” He stresses that while we enjoy the outdoors now, there is hard work ahead in keeping the heritage alive.

KOSC is now in it’s 20th year of promoting outdoor activities to kids. Again next summer the camps for beginners and more advanced youth will be held. If your youngster would like to attend, contact us as soon as possible. Or if you would like to sponsor a young man or woman, who might not otherwise have the chance, it would help insure a brighter future for all sportsmen.

Hog heaven

Hunting wild hogs has continued to grow in popularity at Red Bank Ranch. Through the years the numbers of hogs has remained steady. In fact, it seems pretty amazing that these animal are so plentiful given the numbers of hunters that love to hunt hogs. They just keep on comin’! We hunt hogs on over 30,000 acres of ranch land so the territory is vast.

If you haven’t tried it, contact Red Bank...and bring a group! Be sure to ask about staying in the lodge with meals included for your stay. We are glad to have you as our guest!

Our good friend from Oregon, Larry Hook (center), scored this hog with guides Bo and Cody Riley. We have many clients from Oregon, Washington and Canada coming down for great hunting at Red Bank.
